

HBz aka Nils & Niklas, the DJ and producer duo in Germany, have achieved everything you can hope for over the past two years. Their remixes and originals have been viewed over half a billion times, putting them in the top 10 of the most listened artists on YouTube Germany.

With their unique sound ranging from bounce to hardstyle, it's hard to imagine the Mainstages and the Airpods of their fans, the #hbzfamilly, without them. Their songs have been streamed over 400 million times on Spotify so far. The single "KING KONG" spent half a year in the German Top100 singles charts in 2021 and has already earned the duo their second gold award after their first one for "DEINE AUGEN". With their remix of TREAM's "Lebenslang" they landed the next brilliant hit, which has already been listened to over 40 million times on Spotify alone. With official remixes for SDP, VIZE, Finch or Helene Fischer they also cause a stir. Their remix of Ricky Martin's "Livin' la vida loca" became a worldwide phenomenon and with songs like "Wolke 10", "High Sein" and "Drop Drop Drop" they've again brought fresh hits to their legendary live performances. HBz are now tearing apart entire stadiums; be it in front of 40,000 fans at the Veltins Arena in Gelsenkirchen or at Lollapalooza in the Olympiastadion Berlin, at Parookaville, Sputnik Spring Break, SonneMondSterne, Spring Break Island, Electrize, OpenBeatz, but also at their more intimate club shows at Bootshaus Cologne or Neuraum Munich. From their base in Lower Saxony, where they also host their own festival "Home of Madness", they now travel all over Europe for their live shows. On the wave of success, however, the two remain true to themselves and their love of music. "Combining emotions and escalation" is their motto and it will remain this way in the future.
